In the face of an economic crisis, the magnitude of which we have not seen since the Great Depression, the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act represents a strategic -- and significant -- investment in our country's future.

The Act has saved and created three to four million jobs, 90 percent of them in the private sector. It has provided more than $150 billion to low-income and vulnerable households -- spurring increased economic activity that will save and create more than one million jobs.

These measures are necessary to help the millions of families whose lives have been upended by the economic crisis. But, this Act has done more than provide short-term stimulus. By modernizing our health care, improving our schools, modernizing our infrastructure, and investing in the clean energy technologies of the future, the Act has laid the foundation for a robust and sustainable 21st century economy.

Recovery Act funding is distributed by the federal government directly to applicable organizations including local, state and federal government entities as well as private businesses, non-profits and other organizations. California's share of the federal stimulus package is estimated to be approximately $85 billion over three budget years - including an estimated $30.2 billion in federal tax relief and an estimated $55 billion in spending for federally designated purposes.

So far, the recovery package has provided over $750 million in investment and recovery funds for Sacramento. To view where funds are going throughout Sacramento, click here , or to view the full text of the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act click here
